Event: SPLIT MOUNTAIN AND WIND CAVES DESERT BACKPACK (beg)
Date: 5-6 November 2005
Description: Introductory backpack to the Anza Borrego Desert. Approximately 2.5 miles backpacked each day over level terrain. Trekkers must carry all their own gear and water. Water allowance: 5 quarts for a small scout, 6 quarts average, 7 quarts if you are a water buffalo. We will hike through Split Mountain whose name aptly describes it: a mountain that was literally split apart by an ancient stream. The stream, now dry, meanders past a fascinating anticline to our campsite at some wind caves where Scouts will have a great time exploring. Daytime temperatures will be moderate; nights will dip into the 40's.

Because of the water requirement, your pack will be heavier than normal.
Prerequisite: If you have not backpacked before, you must have your pack inspected at the October 29 San Elijo Lagoon Day Hike.
Meet at: 7:00a, Saturday, at the Sports Authority parking lot; travel in Class A shirt; Eat breakfast before leaving. Return mid afternoon, Sunday.
Cost: $17/trekker. Bring some snack money for the drive home (at the discretion of the driver).
Instructions: Bring signed permission slip by XXXXX (we are dark on 10/31!).
